For the styling of the website there are 2 pages that can be accessed back and forth with the tab in the Tab Menu. The first page is the Home page, and it describes me and my interests, as well as introduces the topic. This page also has my contact information and pictures. The second page is the Matcha page, which describes an introduction to matcha, contains a recipe to make it, and pictures of the materials. For the customizations to the website, I chose to first change the layout of the title on both the Home page and the Matcha page to be centered on the page instead of left aligned. I also changed the background color of the homepage to pink, and the background color of the Matcha page to green. Lastly, I added a box around the instructions to make matcha by adding a border, padding, and background color of the list. I did this by adding a border that was 3 px thick and making the color black, adding padding that was 20 px, and making the background color of the box beige.
